DETAILED ACTION

Two Specie Election Requirements

First Specie Election Requirement

This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention:

Specie A: No differential dye staining of microorganism(s)

Specie B: Differential dye staining of microorganism(s) is required
(e.g., claim 17)

The above species are distinct as the analysis of a microorganism via differential dye staining is a large microorganism differentiation subject matter which is old in the art and separately determined from DNA sequence determinations only. This supports this specie election requirement as undue search burden would be present if the above species were searched all together compared to being separate.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, claims 1-6 are generic to the above species.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

Second Specie Election Requirement

This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention:

Specie C: No microorganism growth requirement for microorganism to be identified

Specie D: Microorganism growth is required for microorganism to be identified (e. g., claim 18)

The above species are distinct as the growth of a microorganism described as unculturable in the preamble of the instant claims may occur only via unusual methods whereas the sequence analysis only of a microorganism is performed separately and via clearly different procedures than utilized for growth. This supports this specie election requirement as undue search burden would be present if the above species were searched all together compared to being separate.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, claims 1-17 and 19-21 are generic to the above species.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of reasons set forth above.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, the specie election requirements for examination purposes as indicated are proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
